Harold began his 38-year career in education in California where he was a teacher for ten years. He then moved back to Madrid, where he taught in several Boone County Schools, until his retirement in 1984. For several of those years; he was not only employed as Principal of State Center High School, he was also Superintendent for Boone County Schools.

He was a supporter of various organizations including Boone County Conservation Foundation, and the Madrid Educational Endowment Foundation.

Harold had a passion for teaching children and his dream of helping them will last for years to come, through an Educational Trust Fund in which he established for scholarships to benefit students.
